

I am glad to hear you are finally coming into the 21st Century. It is up to parents to police what they and their children watch and listen to, not the government. I support your prospective changes to the current broadcast decency standards.