

I support the removal of governmental censorship on our public airwaves. This land was founded on the freedom of speech and dissent, and limiting such freedoms is unconstitutional.

The FCC has no right to determine what is and is not acceptable for Americans to hear, see or say. Additionally, the constraint that an arbitrary standard of decency should be upheld is antiquated and inconsistent with modern society. Standards such as these can easily be enforced by any parent with a V-chip enabled TV on a household by household basis.

I urge you to consider the removal of this arbitrary censorship. As a nation, we should hold the parent's liable for what they expose their children to. The V-chip technology is in place for them to block whatever they see fit. Additional, censorship is unnecessary.
