

Please conduct your business and investigate incidents of indecency as you have been instructed according to law. You are tasked with upholding standards of decency on the public airwaves. It does not seem logical that you are now vacillating when the directives that you are to operate under are quite clear. Considering only constant and egregious instances of profanity or nudity is rather ridiculous. Each and every instance of violations should be investigated and punished accordingly. Thank you for considering these comments.