

Please, do not change the current FCC indecency standards which would allow television to broadcast expletives and nudity, no matter how little the exposure may be. Changing the current policy will not serve our public interest nor create and encourage a society of solid moral standards. Television and radio should be a safe place for people, especially children, to use without exposure to explicit language or nudity.

Thank you, so much, for your consideration.