

Allowing for the f-word, s-word and frontal female nudity will give me one more reason to get rid of my television. There are very few television shows that I can watch with my children that aren't allowing inappropriate language, behavior, etc. Although my children attend public school and can hear this type of language, I am still against allowing it and definitely and most adamantly against my children or myself having to worry about seeing a woman half naked when flipping through the channels.

Thank you for taking this comment seriously.
