

I am in opposition any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or ???fleeting.???

Not only is there research that supports that kids play-act out what they learn vicariously by watching TV, the Supreme Court has also confirmed the FCC???'s authority to enforce policies regarding expletives and nudity, especially during times when children are likely to be watching or listening. Just like violence children cannot handle or understand adult related material, especially when they are not developmentally ready to process this kind of exposure.

Relaxing the current policy would not serve the public interest and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations.
