

Securus is the only phone system available at the Hancock County Detention Center in Mississippi and they regularly block calls such as mine which were through a legal supplier (ConsCallHome.com) falsely claiming it is forwarding when it is not. They enjoy a monopoly and extort inmates' families by charging excessive prices for calls with no other option but them, and when other solutions (legal ones) are used, then Securus blocks them. By definition this is a monopoly and Securus and the jail's administration who gets kickbacks under whatever polite name the funds the jails receive are called - they deserve to be in jail. The FCC and the legislature should put a stop to this, and the FTC should investigate for unfair trade practices. We need the government's help, not complicity in this fraudulent and illegal scheme.
