

I heard that you are considering dropping current broadcast decency standards that ban explicit profanity and "non-sexual" nudity. This is absurd and should not be allowed for the general public to view. Have you lost your morality or any sense of dignity?! Profanity and "non-sexual" nudity are both explicit violations of decency and to allow them back on the airwaves would be utterly disrespectful to all people (except the schmucks out there who are trying to remove the current standards - obviously). Please rethink your decision and at least maintain the minimal standards that you currently have.
