

As a public school Special Education Teacher in middle school, I truly see how vulnerable the identity and personalities of my students. Teachers everywhere work so hard to be examples of how true citizens should act and do among themselves. Now this new FCC policy would allow network television and local radio stations to air the f-word, the s-word and to allow programs to show frontal female nudity. How dare you!

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting."

The Supreme Court has confirmed the FCC's authority to enforce policies regarding expletives and nudity, especially during times when children are likely to be watching or listening.

Relaxing the current policy would not serve the public interest and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations.

Allow our children to be child. We shouldn't be rushing our children to grow up too soon. We need to preserve their innocence in every way possible. Where are the leaders of our country on this topic?

Sincerely, as a concerned teacher, husband, citizen, and father,
Daniel J. Spieker
