

I believe that the FCC should maintain its current ban on nudity and profanity. Already children are exposed to an onslaught of inappropriate behavior in the media and often model their behavior after what they see on TV. True, parents should be responsible in limiting what their children see on TV, but by removing the ban you are making it difficult for families to watch anything without cringing. Please keep in mind our future and our children and the kind of society we want to develop.