

I support changes to loosen the the current indecency Standards on television and radio. When these rules we implemented the technology was not around to block images and words from young children whose parents may find it offensive. Now channels can be blocked on cable boxes and presets on radio make it easy to change the channel. This allows people to choose the media that there family will listen to. Allow people greater freedom in media and let the free market determine what channels and stations play and allow the freedom of choice.
