

I support the proposed change to the current FCC policy that bans the use of language and partial nudity on U.S. television programming. By allowing these changes, we would join most of the other world in terms of free media usage. Already, we allow more than ample amounts of violence, to which children are exposed early; however, we treat language, nudity, and sexuality as if they are taboo and unimportant part of life, when in reality they are much more likely to be encountered than is graphic violence. Thank you.
