

Censoring our public television is 100% appropriate. I don't go for a walk in the park expecting or wanting to see nudity or hear profanity. Its a public place and public decency is expected. The same goes for television. I am aware that certain cable channels will go beyond your everyday television, that is fine. Profanity and nudity do not provide entertainment, they can stimulate a person but always lead to worse things (I don't swear unless I'm angry which can lead to violence, and I'm pretty sure most divorces and abuse can be linked to pornography). The fact that it could even be considered if we would allow such to be open to our families and children publicly, because that's what it would be, is absurd.
