

Dropping current broadcast decency standards that ban explicit profanity and "non-sexual" nudity - really? Why? This doesn't make any sense and for people with children this is unresting new, to even know that this is being considered. I thought FCC was suppose to be looking out for the protection of folk not exposing them and their children to it.