

I support changing the FCC's current broadcast indecency policies. This will reduce the backlog of complaints, while allowing writers and producers to have more creative freedom and real-world honesty in their productions.