

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting."

The Supreme Court has confirmed the FCC's authority to enforce policies regarding expletives and nudity, especially during times when children are likely to be watching or listening.

This policy is in place for a reason. It protects our young from being exposed to material they are not yet mature enough to handle. Their young minds do not process adult material in the same way an adult would. It has been set into action for their protection.
