

I oppose strongly any decision to allow the worst words in the English language to be aired on TV without punishment. The world does not need this further degradation of civility in broadcast Media. I cannot even believe you are considering such a thing!

Who benefits? Certainly not the children. Certainly not civilized conversation. It is an affront to decency to appeal to the lowest common denominator of speech.

I refuse to even write the words here. My television watching days will be behind me if this is allowed.

I will also boycott any advertiser that backs a show that allows it. I won't have to watch to know either; word gets around!
