

I am adamantly opposed to any loosening of nudity restrictions for broadcast. The content of programming is already reprehensible, unhelpful, culturally corrosive and destructive. Any further loosening moves us closer to our base instincts. What possible benefit does more nudity provide, short of titillation of the old and enticement of the young? I do not want American broadcasting to become what I see when I travel to other countries. Truly degrading. We're better than that.