

Secretary Dortch,

I think the proposed change by the FCC is an excellent idea. As a matter of fact, knowing that 1 second or 1 minute (I don't know which) of captioned calling costs the taxpayers $1.78, I try not to use the caption call phone unless it's a really important call. Otherwise, I use another phone that is good enough about 75% of the time. I love the clear and loud sound offered by the Caption Call phone and would use it more if I knew how to quickly turn off the captioning when I can hear the caller. Not having to turn it off would be even better.
