

Decency guidelines need to be upheld to insure that our moral standards are kept. We live in a society where it would seem that anything goes; yet we forget we were founded on religious principles.