

I have heard that the FCC plans to relax their broadcast decency laws. Already I feel that there is too much in the way of nudity and cursing on television, relaxing it even further would be terrible! Besides, children watch network television as well and would be exposed to all of this. I understand that some already are, but now there would be no safe place for them. I strongly oppose relaxing these rules and ask that the FCC not give in to the pressure of the broadcast companies just because they want to try and make an extra buck or two. Thank you.
