

Nudity, profanity and vulgarity, along with gratuitous violence, should NOT be considered for increased public display. Children exposed to these practices on television increasingly adopt similar destructive behaviors in their schools, in their families, and in society. Although the increasing secularization of society (often called "progressive") encourages hateful language, disrespect for others, and the objectification of the human body--under the banner of "free speech"--this trend is in actuality REGRESSIVE, undermining the foundational principles that make our families and our nation strong. We owe it to our children and to our fellow Americans to do all we can to REDUCE public hate, intolerance, and indecency.

As a father and a concerned citizen, I urge the FCC to be MORE vigilant, not less, in monitoring and guarding against the proliferation of nudity, profanity, vulgarity and violence in our society, especially in the public square.
