

I would just like to say I strongly support the idea of allowing certain words and brief nudity to surpass the FCC censors. I believe we're in a day and age where seeing nudity will not scar or hurt anyone in any way that will impact their future. We're also in a time where people need to stop putting so much impact on certain words and allow more freedom in shows to use them. When in comparison with other countries, the USA is one of the few left to have these bans. I watch several french movies and shows and have seen plenty of non-sexual nudity in them that does not defer from the plot or seem raunchy in nature.
