

Take the High Road. Rather than dip the decency standards to a lower level, lift them to a higher level. There is no good to be had by purposefully diminishing wholesomeness. There is no harm in keeping things clean and of a high caliber. There is harm in doing otherwise. Take the High Road.