

I strongly oppose any change that allows more crudeness and indecency than already exist in our media. It is difficult enough as a parent and individual now to weed through to find decent programming suitable for children or even for myself. Those seeking such distasteful programming, in either audio or visual form will always be able to find material to satisfy their lewdness. What we need is more intellectually stimulating media for both children and adults that does not resort to crude language, bathroom "humor", and inappropriate displays of others' private bodies. Just because there are actors and radio personnel willing to demean their bodies and intellect by revealing too much or using unimaginatively course language, doesn't mean the majority of the country wants to see or hear it.

Thank you for allowing the public to respond to this proposed change.
