

I was cancelling my cable because I cannot stand most shows and channels. We cannot even watch family shows on some channels because the commercials during the shows are completely inappropriate.

I watch exclusively shows that can be viewed with my small children in the room. I was going to get an antenna so I could receive local channels for tornado alerts. So now I must go to the internet only for tornado alerts? I refuse to have my children exposed to the garbage that will be showing as I search for local updates.

I will be using my roku to utilize hulu, netflix, and other online resources. The FCC need to tighten controls on content NOT turn their backs on families trying to raise moral, intelligent children.
