

This is very sad that this it is even being considered to relax these regulations. They are already way too relaxed. I, as an adult, do not want to see or hear these things. I already watch minimal television because there is already too much profanity and pornography, even on local television, and I just don't want to see or hear this stuff. If the laws are relaxed, I would have no problem eliminating watching television completely. I think that many others would do this as well, which would hurt ratings even more.
