

I dont want to go watch tv after school and see naked people and hear a bunch of bad words. alot of kids, like small children watch tv alot. and do you really think that there parents would enjoy them seeing nudity and hearing bad language. those kids would think saying stuff like that was fine and then they would go to school and repeat those words. I think there is already enough inapropriate things on the tv, internet, ect. so why put more on? Think about this. (my email makes me sound young but i know alot more than people think.)
