

Please do NOT lower the requirements for cursing or frontal nudity on TV and radio. I teach high school, and students already have issues with appropriate language and proper attire. The more foul language and sexual content students hear and see on TV (and on the radio), the more difficulty they will have with understanding the inappropriateness of using such language and dressing inappropriately. The media has a very strong influence on our teens today. Lowering standards does not teach them anything good; it has the opposite effect!
