

I support any changes the FCC is proposing to indecency standards. It is time to move on an focus on real problems and issues, not needlessly worry about policing thought and expression.