

I have heard that you are considering allowing even more extensive profanity and nudity to be aired on television. I hope and I pray that you will reconsider. I already have had to police the airways during otherwise innocent programs to keep my children from being frightened by previews for horror movies or violent games during the commercials. They are bombarded by images from companies like Victoria Secret and are themselves offended and bothered when they hear the profanity that is already been deemed "acceptable". If you continue on this route I do believe that my family will be forced to discontinue watching any broadcast television at all and receive all of our news from other sources and our entertainment from Netflix, where there are no commercials and I can preview that content. Thank you for your time.
