

For decades now, I have been shocked and offended by the filth that has already been produced by the media and is deemed as acceptable for any audience. I have been grateful for the ability to block most of it from our TV, not only for my children's sakes, but for mine as well. Relaxing the standard of decency goes beyond my comprehension of why the FCC would allow such abuses to be fully thrust upon our society in general. Is this the government's effort to influence a whole new generation to partake of such filth that will only lead to more sexual addictions and abuses of all kinds in our homes and society? I would hope not. Please protect our families by safe guarding and reigning in our nation's media.
