

To Whom it May Concern,

I am concerned with the thought of the FCC relaxing the regulations on nudity and profanity on national television. I want to let you know this is an unwise proposition. I know everyone says that T.V. does not effect our children in a negative or positive way. I want to let you know IT DOES effect our children whether it is a positive or negative way THEY ARE effected. I fear that if you relax this regulation we will have even a more sad society than we already have. People say that violence etc. can't make a monster out of our kids, I think that is ridiculous to say that. So that is like saying drinking alcohol won't make you a drunk, but how do you know until you try and then it is too late. I already have decided to eliminate cable from my home to make sure my children have a safer set of television shows to watch. Even with eliminating cable I still have to be very vigilant as to what I will allow my teenage children to watch. As a family of teenagers I can tell you that my children are just as offended by what is out there on T.V. to watch as I am. There are only a select amount of shows we are able to view. Please don't make it harder for us to enjoy a night of entertainment by adding more garbage to an already smelly can. I know that the violence, nudity, and fowl language that children hear and see DO add to their character and understanding of what is right and wrong. Please don't make T.V. become an obsolete piece of furniture in our house. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely, V. Larkin
