

F-bombs and frontal nudity are completely inappropriate for tv that is available so readily to children. I have a 4, 2 and 1 year old who know how to run the tv and if they accidently turned the chanel to one of those stations, they would be mordified. If we don't allow frontal nudity in public, why would it be allowed on television? We don't use the F-bomb and we don't allow movies with that word in our home either. Please think about our children before you allow or encourage such behavior.
