

I am very much opposed to any change in the current indecency regulations for broadcast television. In my opinion the regulations are already much too lenient! It is very difficult to find anything to watch on television that I would consider decent! There is already too much profanity and sexual immorality on broadcast television and I think all profanity and sexual immorality should be taken off of television and certainly do not allow any more! Children today are already exposed to too much immorality as it is! We need to stand up for what is right! R. Card
