

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting."

Dear FCC,

The Supreme Court has confirmed the FCC's authority to enforce policies regarding expletives and nudity, especially during times when children are likely to be watching or listening.

Relaxing the current policy would not serve the public interest and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations.

If you are charged with preventing indecent material, of any kind, from being broadcasted: PLEASE DO YOUR JOB.

I am no prude or puritan, just a typical US citizen. I am also mature enough to be concerned about the welfare of our citizens, particularly the children. The type of broadcasting we are addressing is unnecessary and has no redeeming value. It is only a reflection of the lack of talent on the part of those that make such programs and the regulators who allow it to be broadcasted.

Sincerely,

John Sherman
