

I oppose any changes to the current FCC indecency standards that would allow television and radio stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting." unless all FCC employees agree to having their own nude photos posted immediately after any such change.

The Supreme Court has confirmed the FCC's authority to enforce policies regarding expletives and nudity, especially during times when children are likely to be watching or listening. The liberal Supremes would certainly confirm the posting of FCC employee's nude photos for all Internet and TV users to view.

Relaxing the current policy would not serve the public interest and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations. Of course, relaxing the policy for FCC employee nude photos would be publicly entertaining and should also allow for public expletives to describe those FCC employee nude photos. This relaxation especially applies for the children of all FCC employees.

Sincerely,
Tom Lavin
