

Art, like morality, consists in drawing the line somewhere.

Gilbert K. Chesterton

You do art no favors by enforcing no standards, and drawing a temporary line that can then arbitrarily be moved is akin to not drawing a line at all. Which is pitifully weak. What is the job of the FCC if not to uphold holistic standards for the ethical benefit of a younger generation; for the generations of any age for that matter? I urge you not to weaken to the whims of money-mongering networks and to stand for good and beneficial values rather than allow our nation to degrade to being unrecognizable morally from other nations.
