

I appeal to the FCC to not give up the responsibility to be the “boy with his finger in the dyke” when it comes to maintaining a standard of decency. If you can’t do the job, get out and let someone else take the heat. There will always be someone demanding you open Pandora’s Box. Let those who don’t have an intelligent vocabulary beyond the fword and the sword find another job –not you. You were hired and are given a pay check to be our nation’s standard barrier against indecency. It’s nothing new or evolving. It’s always been this way to push against standards of right or decency.
