

Absolutely not - the morals of our country have been steadily going downhill. Adults should be able to communicate without using these words - very bad example for the youth of our country and for everyone.