

How can we mothers raise our children to have high moral standards with so much profanity, immorality, and indecency invading our homes through network television? The FCC needs to set in place stronger regulations which will help to protect families.