

I respectfully request the FCC reevaluate your loosening of the moral standards for tv, etc. One example should suffice:

When you tell a kid they are worthless, will amount to nothing, will fail, they will tend to model, lead their life in a less positive way.

Were the FCC allow a more perverse attitude to shape our citizens minds, we will have a more perverse society. With the resulting societal costs we all pay. What goes into the mind affects the outcome of the mind,actions, etc.

This is only an issue for the agency because they, you are there for the public good.

Thank you.
