

Please do not make any change in FCC standards that would thereafter allow television and radio stations to broadcast currently prohibited expletives and nudity. I cannot see how it could serve the public interest to coarsen public language and dress further than it already is.

And on a related subject, I wince whenever I hear "Oh my God" carelessly uttered; the creator of the universe deserves the highest awe, respect, and reverent fear in our speaking, especially in public.