

Please uphold the decency standards that will prevent us from being assaulted by profanity and blatant nudity over public airways. It can't possibly be responsible to expose children to such expressions and displays, and I don't want to have it thrown in my face either. Surely the US Government can act on this matter in a manner that would honor the struggle of today's families in providing a wholesome environment within which to raise children. Leave the offensive material to the unrestrained "outside" the home and the licensed, private access channels. Please!
