

I feel it is inappropriate to put the F word, nudity, and on other profanity on television. If someone were to knock on a front door and show the same exact things that are currently on television you would probably get upset, offended, and then shut your door and never want that person (or experience) back to your home.

Some people would even file a complaint with their local authorities for indescant exposure.

I think if we allow television content to be something you would like to invite into your home for your whole family to be a part of, then that is the standard to which you should choose to air things. (or not)

My stance: No profanity, no nudity.