

A person is free to see films with nudity and with strong explicitives if they wish, but by allowing these things on national television the rest of us who choose not to watch these things may see these things when we would rather not. It isn't right to allow nudity on public television or strong explicitives even if these things are "brief" or "fleeting." I don't want my children to exposed to things things when we are trying to watch a show as a family.
