At the meeting, FCC staff described its interest in moving forward to address issues raised by its May 25, 2012 public notice¹ and discussed its proposal to issue a declaratory ruling purporting to clarify existing law. The FCC did acknowledge the value of using diagnostic applications such as Carrier IQ and collecting such information to improve network performance and that the FCC had no intention of restricting carriers from continuing to do so.

Pursuant to Section 1.1206 of the Commission’s rules,² this letter is being electronically filed via ECFS with your office and a copy of this submission is being provided to the meeting attendees. Please let the undersigned know if you have any questions regarding this filing.
