

I am appalled that the FCC is not monitoring the violence, vulgarity and obscenity on some television programs. The broadcast stations (which are OUR airwaves) are airing shows that bring filth into our living rooms. Many cable channels seem to have no consciences about what they broadcast. Programming that children can watch in the evening is almost non-existent. Were it not for PBS and reruns of old shows, we would have little to watch. The FCC has shirked its responsibilities to families. I'm an adult and won't watch the disturbing shows of murder, torture and sexual vulgarity--- yet you allow it to be broadcast in 'prime-time'--wehich used to be called the family hours. You need to protect the interests of the public--not the entertainment industry.
