

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I am shocked and disappointed that the FCC would consider relaxing the standards on sex and profanity during the hours that children watch TV. When television content is the raunchiest it has ever been in history, I still do not understand why this would even be proposed.

While I have heard First Amendment arguments, the most distressing is that it would allow the FCC to reduce its case backlog. That is an outrageous excuse! That is akin to Homeland Security claiming that illegal immigrant deportations are down because they have stopped prosecuting them. Oh wait.....now I understand.

Shame on you! Protect our children, not your phony-baloney jobs!
