

As a young man who currently enjoys watching shows such as Walking Dead, Game of Thrones, etc. I see nothing wrong with expletives and nudity and have no qualms about seeing them on tv. However as a future father and mentor to young children I abhor the fact that the FCC is even considering this. We as a society have a hard enough time teaching children the differences between right and wrong, how to use proper english and when nudity and sex is appropriate. If the FCC allows this ruling to continue then it will be on your hands the future teen pregnancies and the decreased mental capacity of our children.
